Danville, Ky., Oct. 23.—Three of the best public schools in Boyle County are without principals, and the citizens of the respective communities are trying to unravel a deep mystery.

Two or three years ago Prof. Green D. Taylor, Prof. J. H. Taylor and Rev. F. W. Taylor located at Gravel Switch in this county. They secured certificates to teach in the public school, and, in view of their splendid recommendations, readily found employment. This year Rev. F. W. Taylor taught the Shakertown Road School; Prof. Green D. Taylor, the New Austria school, and Prof. J. H. Taylor the Scrub Grass school. They began on July 1. When the school money was received by Superintendent John W. Rawlings some days ago the three Taylors were on hand promptly and collected their respective salaries to date.

WIFE SUES TO GET SUPPORT

Husband Drove Her
From Home

CLAIMS HE WOULD NOT LET HER RETURN

Now She Asks the Court to Make Him Support Her
—The Charges

Verda Gates, represented by Attorneys Laser, Huston & Marquis, has filed a suit for alimony in probate court against her husband, Henry H. Gates. She also asks for an injunction. They were married Dec. 9, 1888, and the following children were born: Garland W. Gates, aged 15 years, and Donell F. Gates, aged 12 years.

The wife says her husband has been wilfully absent from her since May 18 1899; that without any fault on her part he drove her from their home without cause and against her will; that she returned to her former home for the purpose of living with her husband and requested him to permit her to come into her home; that he refused to permit her to live in his home and has at all times refused to provide her with a home, or permit her to live in his home.

The wife says during all of this time she has had the custody of Donell F. Gates, their youngest child.
